

BETRAYED BY LOVE...ONE STORY...

He/She speaks of his/her love for you, always remembers your birthday and every other special day. He/She pays you all the attention anyone can ask for, says all the right things, does everything you expect and hope for.....but there is something you can't put your finger on.

Something that tells you he/she is not being entirely truthful.

The change happens slowly but surely. Working late more often, attending functions on his/her own and making excuses to go on business trips alone. The feeling inside you, nags at you more and more. You long to confront him/her, but you fear creating a problem, that may not be there at all.

Then you notice yet another sign which sets off alarm bells and forces you to confront him/her.

He/She denies it and immediately turns it all on you. Accusing you of having changed and says what you really never thought you'd hear....."Your suspicions are enough to drive me into someone else's arms."

It feels as though you've been hit in the gut and even though you know he/she is trying to put you on a guilt trip, you find yourself doubting yourself.

After the initial confrontation, things appear to go back to normal and then yet another sign.

This becomes a cycle of events and in your mind you know you're right, but all you're left feeling is confused, unhappy and rejected.

What do you do.....don't you deserve to be treated with more respect?